

Seating Chart Descriptions

Tanger Center seating includes three levels: Orchestra, Grand Tier and Loge.

General Seating Map

- The Orchestra is made up of the following:
 - The Pit (Rows 1 through 3) at the very front of the theater. Generally, the pit is not seated for Broadway shows unless otherwise noted on the purchasing map.
 - Orchestra Right, which includes the far House Right seats in rows G through U in Bard* seating.
 - Orchestra Right Center, which includes inside aisle seats over to the Bard seats in Orchestra Right. This section includes Rows A through U.
 - Please note that there are sight/hearing impaired seats in row A.
 - Orchestra Center consists of Rows A through V in the very middle of the orchestra level.
 - Please note that there are accessible seats in Row V.
 - Orchestra Left Center, which includes inside aisle seats over to the Bard seats in Orchestra Left. This section includes Rows A through U.
 - Orchestra Left, which includes the far House Left seats in rows G through U in Bard seating.
 - *Bard seating is located to the further outsides of the orchestra on a slightly raised platform.
- The Grand Tier sits at the direct back of the Orchestra after the cross aisle. Each row raises with stairs so feels as an extension of the Orchestra floor up to the second floor. It is made up of the following sections:
 - Right which is on the House Right side, Rows A through R.
 - Center which is in the center of this section, Rows A through R.
 - Left which is in the House Left center of this section, Rows A through R.
 - In the Grand Tier, please note that there are accessible seats in Row R.
- The Loge overhangs our Grand Tier, looks on to the stage much like a traditional balcony. It mirrors the Grand Tier sections (Right, Center and Left), and is made up of Rows A through L.
- Please note that there are also additional accessible seats (4 each) on each side of the Grand Tier and Loge.
